

Alan Hassenfeld
Chair, National Children's Museum Campaign Steering Committee

Alan Hassenfeld is the former Chairman of the Board and present Chairman of the Executive Committee of Hasbro, Inc., a multi-billion dollar international toy company. Under his leadership, Hasbro has become a worldwide leader in children's and family entertainment. Its brands and products are some of the most recognizable and respected throughout the world.

Mr. Hassenfeld is a business leader with a passion for philanthropy. His far-reaching impact has crossed local, regional, national, and international borders. From the beginning of his career, he has been involved in hundreds of charitable and social causes, including fighting for the human rights of manufacturing workers in Asia and making decisions as the Chairman of the Scholar Athlete Games.

Through his charitable work and foundation participation, Mr. Hassenfeld remains involved in hundreds of community, social, and political causes. These include primarily children's issues, social responsibility, and political reform. Mr. Hassenfeld has been honored for his efforts throughout his career. His awards come from diverse organizations including universities, charitable organizations, political and religious communities, as well as corporate institutes.

Mr. Hassenfeld has a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He holds numerous honorary degrees from prestigious universities around the world. He lives in Rhode Island with his wife of 19 years.

###